

The background is a stylized illustration of a night sea. The sky is a deep blue with small white stars. The sea is a darker blue with simple white lines for waves. On the left, a large lighthouse is partially visible, with a small figure on top looking through a telescope. In the middle ground, there are two smaller lighthouses, one of which is striped. On the right, a large, detailed lighthouse with a domed top and a balcony stands on a rocky base. A green banner is attached to its side.
